REPORT OF THE UNITED NATIONS EXPERT ON SPACE APPLICATIONS

Addendum

The following should be added at the end of the table in annex VI:

10	Second United Nations International Conference on Spin-off Benefits of Space Technology	30 March-3 April Tampa, Florida, United States of America	The conference will expose industrialists and private establishments in the developing countries to the many ways in which their companies and countries have benefited and could directly and indirectly benefit from the various technologies that have been and are being developed for space exploration and utilization. The conference will also provide invaluable opportunities for participating private and other establishments from the industrialized and developing countries to interact for possible short-term and long-term collaborations in areas of mutual interest.
